The reading / parsing of an XML document is relatively straightforward and most programming languages provide extensive support for XML manipulation.. The only basic pre-requisite in order to understand and reuse the information expressed in Europass XML is to be familiar with the schema, and to foresee mappings between that and the structure used to internally store the resume-related data.

3 0 They can be uploaded to the Europass online editors or sent as input to the Europass Web Services and converted to any other available format such as PDF or MS DOC.. Both formats can be imported to the Europass online editors at a later stage for editing, or to any other system that understands the Europass XML, thus enabling interoperability.. XML ExamplesBelow you can find some indicative Europass documents in XML format, based on the latest Europass XML Schema, v3.. 3 0 XSLTs for Version CompatibilityIn case you are stuck with an older Europass XML version and you cannot adjust your application soon so as to use the latest one, you might consider utilising one of the following XSL Transformations which take an old Europass XML as the source document and convert it to a newer version..

Please use the latest XML version if you are just starting out with Europass Interoperability.. XML SchemaThe latest Europass XML Schema is version 3 3 0 The corresponding XML Schema Definition (which consists of several XSD files, main, included and imported) and related documentation can be downloaded below.. Feel free to use those examples for testing purposes XML Versions and CompatibilityThe latest Europass XML Schema is v3.. If you are currently using a version older than 2 0, say v1 2, and would like to upgrade to v3.. Further details about the Europass XML Schema can be found in the sections that follow.. 0, a two-step process will need to be followed: first transform v1 2 to v2 0 using europass-cv-v1.. It is considered to be clear and self-explaining, while remaining sound and extensible, and as close as possible to other related vocabularies, as those defined by HR-XML.. 3 0 This version is currently supported by the following Europass services:New CV Online Editor (launched December 2012)New LP Online Editor (launched December 2013)REST APIRemote UploadIn practice, this means that all XML and PDF+XML documents generated by the above mentioned services will use XML v3.. In any case, these XSLTs should only be used as a temporary workaround and it is strongly advised to natively upgrade your system to use the latest Europass XML version as soon as possible. 0041d406d9 Torrente 3 El Protector 2005
